

Want to provide telehealth services under the new MBS rebate?

Like to link up with medical and health professionals already using telehealth?

Need personalised, objective advice and support to get established in telehealth?

Or, you're a vendor promoting telehealth products or services?

ACRRM has partnered with medical specialist and nursing colleges, RFDS, peak Aboriginal, rural health, and telehealth associations to develop clinical and professional guidelines, resources and support services for health professionals who use telehealth services in their patient care.

 ehealth Our main aim is to support clinicians, administrators, and their health teams with practical resources, timely online content, and advice on rationalising their telehealth services.

We believe that Telehealth must enhance the clinician/patient relationship, not fragment it. We are focused on promoting achievements of practitioners who have optimised the technology to improve their patient care.

Link with other professionals who have made telehealth work for their patients. Join in this important national conversation online. It's free. Contact ACRRM today.

 Australian College of Rural and Remote Medicine